A WORD FROM OUR GRAND MARSHALL PHILIPPA RYDER

The theme of Dublin Pride this year is One Story, Many Voices. Ireland is known worldwide as a nation of storytellers, a tradition embodied in the seanchaí. It was through the stories of some of our very own colourful seanchaí that I, and I am certain, many others, got the courage to be true to ourselves and to live our lives out loud and proud.

For the past 25 years I, as a proud trans woman, have been telling my story: to family, to friends, to work colleagues, to the media and to politicians with one goal in mind: to engender acceptance of the basic human right for our community to live freely and without harassment. Equality, non-discrimination and dignity are foundational and non-negotiable for all.

Challenges lie ahead for our community and society as a whole. A more volatile world brings opportunities for extremists to overturn long-held rights for minorities such as ours. Working together we can ensure the progress we have achieved over many years continues. By telling our stories, raising our voices and claiming our right to be heard, honestly and emphatically, we can help those who may be unsure or afraid of their personal path ahead. We are stronger together.

I am delighted to represent our wonderful community as Grand Marshal for 2026 and I wish to thank the Board and Executive of Dublin Pride for this great honour.

A PODCAST FOR PEOPLE LIVING WITH HIV, FRIENDS, FAMILY & ALLIES

Ireland's free, independent LGBTQ+ media since 1988

For over three decades, GCN has been Ireland's LGBTQ+ paper of record and a vital resource to inform, educate, platform and connect the community, telling our stories and advocating for a more equal society.

Amid an increasingly hostile global political climate and the rise of hate and misinformation, now more than ever, our community needs a free, accessible, independent media organisation that tells our side of the story.

GET IN TOUCH

To learn about the work we do and how you can partner with GCN to reach our diverse audience you can contact stefano@gcn.ie

GCN is the trading name of the National LGBTQ+ Federation CLG, a registered charity. (CHY number: 20034580)
